YouTube Confirms Record-Breaking 24-Hours Traffic - Page 7 (2018) YouTube said it had broken its own record for video views on the service. It reached 1.3 billion views around 10pm on Tuesday, 10 days into the three-week lockdown. The last time the service saw 1.3 billion views was on 11 March 2020, around the first day of the lockdown, according to YouTube. In the following days, the site reported fewer than 900 million views a day. U.K. hospitals struggle to deal with surge in COVID-19 patients - Page 4 (2020) "We have 901 beds in acute wards, 1252 beds in rehabilitation wards, 1369 beds in intensive care units, 1530 beds in high-dependency forget about YouTube's standalone player. It's 100% reliable and you can actually mute/unmute the sound, change volume and even choose to enable subtitles. Just make sure to install the "Elements Listening" extension to get the best experience while watching! A: The only way to do this is if you have an internet connection, no matter how slow, otherwise you can't navigate the web. This is completely automated, you don't have to do anything. It may even detect blocked websites for you. The add-on displays a shield, you can see it in the Add-ons tools section in the developer's website. MTHFR C677T polymorphism is associated with increased risk of hypertension in females. Recently, it has been reported that the polymorphisms of MTHFR (C677T) and p22phox (C242T) may play a role in the pathogenesis of hypertension. The prevalence of the MTHFR C677T and p22phox C242T polymorphisms in normotensive and hypertensive subjects as well as their relationship with cardiovascular risk factors were examined. The study group consisted of 100 normotensive subjects and 150 untreated, newly diagnosed, stage I-II essential hypertensive patients. The frequencies of the C677T and C242T MTHFR and p22phox gene polymorphisms were determined using restriction fragment length polymorphism analysis. We found a significantly increased prevalence of the T allele of MTHFR 677 in hypertensive compared to normotensive subjects (64.6% vs. 47.0%,  $p=0.002$ ). The TT genotype was more frequent in the hypertensive group than in the normotensive one (10.7% vs. 4.0%,  $p=0.042$ ). These results suggest that the C677T polymorphism in the MTHFR gene is associated with hypertension in females. Our results support the fact that the C677T polymorphism in the MTH present invention relates to a disk drive having a recording medium mounting surface on which an information recording surface of a disk-shaped recording medium is placed in a stable state. 2. Description of the Related Art In a prior art disk drive having a recording medium mounting surface on which an information recording surface of a disk-shaped recording medium is placed in a stable state, as shown in FIG. 3, a disk-shaped medium 1, an information recording surface of which is placed facing downward and toward a recording and/or reproducing head, is loaded onto a table 2 (or an extension plate). The disk-shaped medium 1 is fixed to the table 2 through a plurality of springs disposed at positions corresponding to the edges and the center of the information recording surface 1a of the disk-shaped medium 1. The disk-shaped medium 1, which is loaded onto the table 2, is pressed by the springs and fixed to the table 2. In such a case, the spring, which is applied with a load in pressing the disk-shaped medium 1, has a spherical surface and an angle between a line drawn along the surface of the spring and a line drawn along the surface of the spring along the central axis of the disk-shaped medium 1 ranges between 60 and 90 degrees. This construction is simple in structure and is capable of reducing the cost and is low in weight. On the other hand, the cost and weight of a disk drive can be reduced by employing a
